

HELP: Thousands of Coins Still Need Identification

Nicholas, Wednesday 05 December 2012 - 13:08:24

Help Identify New Coins! Back in July I announced that Aspencoins.com was kind enough to donate over 90,000 coin photos to our database. These are some great quality pictures of some really nice coins that they have sold on eBay.

Since July we've added a few hundred of these photos but there's still so many more to add. It's way too much for just one person to do so I made a special page to help add their coins to our site.

Depending on the coin you can earn up to 7 bragger tokens for each coin you're able to identify. Since most of us are not experts of every coin ever minted, there may be some you won't be able to identify right away. Luckily there is an option that lets you skip ahead to the next coin, next 10 coins or even 100 coins ahead. I wanted to make it as easy as possible.

This is a great way to earn bragger tokens if you don't have a lot of coin photos of your own to add. You do get full bragging rights as submitter of the coins and photos.

Try it out and let me know what you think: Help Identify New Coins!

As your browsing these coins you're bound to fall in love with some (or all?) and although most of these have already been sold, aspencoins has more listings all the time so check out their current listings as they are always listing more. I've ordered from them twice so far and it's been a great experience.
